P R E F A C E .

THE success which has attended the publication of the "RECORDS OF THE PAST" is evinced by the appearance of the fourth volume containing another selection of some of the most important historical and other texts. Most of these have been previously translated, but as they are scattered in works either difficult of access or expensive to purchase, or else have appeared in periodicals of scientific importance not publicly known, or published in different European languages, their republication in a popular form with the final corrections by the translators, whether English or foreign, invests them with a fresh interest. It is hardly necessary to refer to their value as contributions to mythological, historical and philological knowledge as this is now universally recognized. They suddenly appear as apparitions of a departed past, which at one time it was supposed would never be recovered. The history of the West had been told in the glowing pages of the Greeks and Romans, that of the East a hazy and ill-defined conception of thought remained so, till rock and clay, leather and papyrus, had been compelled to reveal the secrets of the unknown and almost magical characters in which that history was written. It then melted away from the mere vague wedge or conventional sign, to appear as the great drama of a history long passed, whose leading characters, personal relations, and continuity of action were again presented to the intellectual eye. It is now removed from the closet of the student to the wider domain of the general public, and all can equally enjoy that which has hitherto been the privilege of a few to attain. The course of time, the rapid and irresistible progress of science and criticism, may have hereafter to add some additional corrections and final touches to the translations which have hitherto been prepared. Such is however after all the fate of translations of all books and in all languages, each generation of mankind preferring to hear the language of its day and each school of students proposing its own form of transmitting thoughts. The grand outlines and principal details remain however essentially the same, and the highest ambition of improvers can neither destroy the golden thread of the web of thought or disfigure the immovable features of the history of the past.

ANNALS OF THOTHMES III.

THE INSCRIPTION OF ANEBNI.

 TRANSLATED BY

S. BIRCH, LL.D.

THIS inscription is engraved on the dress of a small statue in calcareous stone, at present in the British Museum, representing the prince Anebni seated on a pedestal. The inscription is in horizontal lines of incuse hieroglyphs coloured blue. It came from Thebes and probably from the tomb of Anebni, as is proved by the sepulchral character of the dedication.

This small statue which was dedicated to Anebni by the joint order of Thothmes III and the queen Hatasu or Hatsheps is valuable for proving their united reign and their relationship to each other. The whole of the prenomen Ramaka has been erased, except a part of the seated figure of Truth, Ma. There is however enough of this figure remaining to show what it was and to prove the historical fact. The statue itself was probably made just previously to the sole reign of Thothmes III, the revolution which took place and deprived Hatasu of her power and probably her life, being indicated by the erasure of her name, the sign of the strong political feeling or passion which accompanied that event.

The statue has been published by Sharpe, Egyptian Inscriptions, pl. 56. Lepsius Auswahl, Taf. xi.

INSCRIPTION OF AAHMES.

TRANSLATED BY

S. BIRCH, LL.D.

THIS inscription is on a stone tablet at present in the Louvre at Paris, and came from El Kab or Eileithyia. It completes a longer inscription found at that spot detailing the capture of Avaris from the Shepherds, and other wars at the beginning of the XVIIIth dynasty and contains an abridged version of the wars in which Egypt was engaged from the reign of Amasis I to that of Thothmes III. It will be seen that these wars were carried on simultaneously in the North and South and that Egypt was pressed on both frontiers by its African and Asiatic enemies. The Shasu are probably the Shos or Shepherds. The inscription is however chiefly a record of the rewards which Aahmes had received.

ANNALS OF THOTHMES III.

OBELISK OF THE LATERAN.

 TRANSLATED BY

S. BIRCH, LL.D.

THIS inscription is engraved on the four sides of a large obelisk of red granite commonly called the Obelisk of St. John Lateran, at present existing on the hill of the Lateran at Rome. It bears the inscriptions of three kings Thothmes III, Thothmes IV of the XVIIIth Dynasty, and Rameses II of the XIXth, who restored and set it up again. It has a certain chronological interest from the mention of 35 years between Thothmes III and Thothmes IV. The translation of those lines which relate to the kings of the XVIIIth Dynasty only is given.

This obelisk appears to have been originally a Theban one, and intended for the granite sanctuary at Karnak. Next to the chronological data one of the most interesting notices found in the inscription is that of the barge of the god Amen-Ra which was made of cedar cut down in the land of the Rutennu or Syria. These barges each had different names, and that of Thothmes III is mentioned in the inscription of Amenemheb already previously translated. It will be observed that in the reign of Thothmes IV Egypt is mentioned as dominant over foreign nations and not undertaking further campaigns. These obelisks were a kind of triumphal columns erected to perpetuate the record of the national glories.

The text and a translation have been published by Ungarelli, Interpretatio Obeliscorum fo. Rom. 1842, tab. I, the text only, by Zoega, De usu et origine Obeliscorum, fo. Rom. 1797 and also by Kircher, Œdipus iii, 164. The latter part owing to an incorrect joining of the fragments is confused and unintelligible.

OBELISK OF RAMESES II.

(Now in the Place de la Concorde, Paris.)

TRANSLATED FROM THE FRENCH TEXT OF M. FRANÇOIS CHABAS.

THIS Obelisk, the grandest monument of Egyptian art now existing in Europe, is one of two which were originally set up by Rameses II before the great temple of Ammon-Ra at El Luxor. It is a monolith of red granite. The Paris obelisk, which was the shorter of the two, was 70ft. 3in. high (French) from the end of the pyramidion down to the base, but exclusive of the height of the pedestal which remained at Thebes, the width of the obelisk at its base was about 7ft. 6in. and its weight upwards of 220,000 kilogrammes and contains on each face three vertical lines of deeply cut hieroglyphics representing the adorations of Rameses to Amen-Ra. The apex is believed to have been originally protected by a covering of gilded bronze.

The Viceroy of Egypt, Mohammed Ali, offered to the British Government one of the obelisks of Alexandria, and the other to France ; but after examination of the monolith and the difficulties of transport, the proposal was declined by England. When Champollion made his exploration of Egypt, he examined the question, and upon his report the two obelisks of Luxor were judged worth the trouble and expense of transport. An especial vessel the "Louqsor," was built at Toulon for the purpose, and sailed in 1831 under the command of Ship Lieutenant Verninhac St. Maur. The obelisk was landed at Paris, 23 December, 1833.

The inscriptions have been several times translated and published both on the Continent and in England. There is a translation by Salvolini, Traduction des Inscriptions sur l'obelisque de Paris, 4to., Paris 1837 ; and the text is given by Champollion, Monuments, Tome IV. pl. CCIX ; Sharpe, Egypt. Inscr., pl. 42, 43. The translation here given is that given by M. Chabas in Traduction complète des Inscriptions Hiéroglyphiques de l'obelisque de Luxor, à Paris, 1868, which has been selected as the most recent and as combining the results of the studies of previous Egyptologists.

TREATY OF PEACE BETWEEN
RAMESES II. AND THE HITTITES,

TRANSLATED BY
C. W. GOODWIN, M.A.

THE inscription of the Treaty of Peace in the 21st year between Rameses II of the XIXth dynasty and the Kheta, supposed to be the Hittites, occurs on an outer wall of the temple of Karnak where it still remains. The text has been published by Rosellini, Monumenti Storici, fo., Firenze 1832, MR. CXVI; by M. Lepsius, Denkmaeler, fo., Berlin, Abth. III, Bl. 146; and by M. Brugsch, Recueil des Monuments, 4to., Leipzig 1862, I, Pl. xxviii. The following are the principal translations that have been made of it: one by Rosellini, Monumenti Storici, 8vo., Firenze 1839, Tom. 3, Pt. II, p. 268; another by De Rougé in M. Egger's Études sur les Traités Publics, 8vo., 1866, p. 243; and another also by the same translator in the Revue Archéologique, 8vo., Paris 1866, Vol. XIII, p. 268 ; that of the present translator in the Pantheon, 4to., London 1862, No. 14 ; and one by M. Chabas, Voyage d'un Égyptien, 4to., Chalon 1866, p. 33. Unfortunately the final portion of the inscription is very much destroyed, and as no duplicate copy has as yet been discovered the interesting details at the close are left very obscure. It is the earliest example on record of an extraordinary treaty, and the careful provisions stipulated for the protection of the persons delivered up show the humane state of international law prevalent at this remote period amongst the Egyptians and neighbouring nations as well as the solemn pledges and oaths taken by the contracting parties to ratify the treaty and carry out their engagements. The document also throws some light upon the religion of the Kheta, and mentions among their gods Sutech and Astaruta or Ashtaroth. It is also remarkable for stating that the original of the treaty was inscribed upon a plate of silver, and as the front had the device of the god Sutech it is probable that it was the authenticated one of the Kheta prince, and also in the language and character of that people.

TREATY OF PEACE.

- 1 The twenty-first year, the twenty-first day of Tybi,¹ in the reign of King RA-USER-MA, approved by the Sun, Son of the Sun, RAMESSU-MERIAMEN, endowed with life eternal and for ever; lover of AMEN-RA, HARMACHU, PTAH of Memphis, MAUT Lady of Asheru, and CHENSU-NEFERHOTEP; invested upon the throne of HORUS, among the living, like his father HARMACHU, eternally and for ever.
- 2 On this day behold His Majesty was in the city of the House of Ramessu-Meriamen, making propitiations to his father AMEN-RA, to HARMACHU, to ATOM Lord of On, to AMEN of Ramessu-Meriamen, to PTAH of Ramessu-Meriamen, to SUTECH the most glorious son of NUT; may they grant him an eternity of thirty-years' festivals, an infinity of years of peace, all lands, all nations, being bowed down beneath his feet for ever.
- 3 There came a royal Herald (nearly a whole line is erased here; the sense is, two royal Heralds came, bringing a tablet of silver, which)
- 4 the Grand-Duke of Kheta, KHETA-SIRA, had sent to the King to beg for peace of King RA-USER-MA, approved of the Sun, Son of the Sun, RAMESSU-MERIAMEN, endowed with life for ever and ever, like his father the Sun continually. Copy of the plate of silver which the Grand-Duke of Kheta, KHETASIRA, sent to the King by the hand of his Herald
- 5 TARTISBU, and his Herald RAMES, to beg for peace of His Majesty RA-USER-MA, approved of the Sun, Son of

- the Sun, RAMESSU-MERIAMEN, Chief¹ of rulers, whose boundaries extend to every land at his pleasure, The covenant made by the Grand-Duke of Kheta, KHETASIRA, the puissant, son of MARASARA,
- 6 the Grand-Duke of Kheta, the puissant, grandson of SAPALALA, the Grand-Duke of Kheta, the puissant; upon the plate of silver, with RA-USER-MA, approved of the Sun, the great ruler of Egypt, the puissant, son of RAMEN-MA (Seti Menepthah I.) the great ruler of Egypt, the puissant, grandson of RA-MEN-PEHU (Ramessu I.).
- 7 the great ruler of Egypt, the puissant: The good conditions of peace and fraternity . . . to eternity, which were aforetime from eternity. This was an arrangement of the great ruler of Egypt with the great Prince of Kheta, by way of covenant, that god might cause no hostility to arise between them! Now it happened
- 8 in the time of MAUTENARA, the Grand-Duke of Kheta, my brother, that he fought with . . . the great ruler of Egypt. But thus it shall be henceforth, even from this day—Behold; KHETASIRA the Grand-Duke of Kheta covenants to adhere to the arrangement made by the Sun, made by SUTECH, concerning the land of Egypt,
- 9 with the land of Kheta, to cause no hostility to arise between them for ever. Behold, this it is—KHETASIRA the Grand-Duke of Kheta covenants with RA-USER-MA, approved by the Sun, the great ruler of Egypt from this day forth, that good peace and good brotherhood shall be between us for ever.
- 10 He shall fraternize with me, he shall be at peace with me, and I will fraternize with him, I will be at peace with him for ever. It happened in the time of MAUTENARA the Grand-Duke of Kheta, my brother, after his decease, KHETASIRA sat as

- 11 Grand-Duke of Kheta upon the throne of his father—Behold I am at one *in heart*¹ with RAMESSU-MERIAMEN, the great ruler of Egypt . . . of peace, of brotherhood; it shall be better than the peace and the brotherhood, which was before this. Behold, I the Grand-Duke of Kheta with
- 12 RAMESSU-MERIAMEN the great ruler of Egypt, am in good peace, in good brotherhood; the children's children of the Grand-Duke of Kheta shall be in good brotherhood and peace with the children's children of RAMESSU-MERIAMEN the great ruler of Egypt. As our (treaty) of brotherhood, and our arrangements
- 13 (made for the land of Egypt) with the land of Kheta, so to them also shall be peace and brotherhood for ever; there shall no hostility arise between them for ever. The Grand-Duke of Kheta shall not invade the land of Egypt for ever, to carry away anything from it; nor shall RAMESSU-MERIAMEN the great ruler of Egypt invade the land
- 14 of Kheta for ever to carry away anything from it for ever. The treaty of alliance which was even from the time of SAPALALA the Grand-Duke of Kheta, as well as the treaty of alliance which was in the time of MATENARA² the Grand-Duke of Kheta my father, if I fulfil it, behold RAMESSU-MERIAMEN the great ruler of Egypt shall fulfil it
- 15 . . . together with us, in each case, even from this day, we will fulfil it, executing the design of alliance. If any enemy shall come to the lands of RAMESSU-MERIAMEN the great ruler of Egypt, and he shall send to the Grand-Duke of Kheta saying, Come and give me help against him, then shall the Grand-Duke of Kheta
- 16 . . . the grand-Duke of Kheta to smite the enemy; but if it be that the Grand-Duke of Kheta shall not come

THE TABLET OF 400 YEARS.

XIXth DYNASTY.

S. BIRCH, LL.D.

THIS Inscription is incised on a tablet of red granite found in the ruins of the ancient Tanis, which is at present in the Museum of Boulaq in Cairo. The monument and a translation have been published by Mariette Bey in the Revue Archéologique, vol. xi, Paris, 1865 ; pl. 4, p. 169 and foll. The inscription is in some respects peculiar if not suspicious. It is an act of homage from a high officer of state named Seti to the god Sut in the reign of Rameses II of the XIXth dynasty, and gives an interval of 400 years between his reign and that of the rule of the Hykshos or Shepherds. As such it is most important for the chronology although unfortunately the place of the Shepherd king in the dynasty is not known, nor is the regnal year of Rameses II mentioned in the tablet, which had it been, would have given two fixed points for the duration of the XVIIIth and XIXth dynasties.

THE TABLET OF 400 YEARS.

The upper part of the tablet contains the usual vignette, the subject being, a Scene representing RAMESES II "giving wine to his beloved that he may make him a giver of life." The god SUT in his human form wearing the white crown hut, and holding the ankh, as symbol of life and the uas, sceptre. The officer SETI stands behind the monarch in adoration to SUT. The inscription runs :—"A gift of adoration to thy person Oh SUT, Son of NUT, give thou a long time in thy service to the Prince, Nomarch, Royal Scribe of the horses, Superintendent of the countries Superintendent of the fortress Ta-ru " (Parameses).

- 1 THE Living HORUS, the Living Sun, the Powerful Bull beloved of Truth, Lord of the Festivals of Thirty Years like his father PTAH, King of Upper and Lower Egypt RA-USER-MA, Approved of the Sun, Son of the Sun RAMESES beloved of AMEN Giver of Life
- 2 Lord of Diadems, Regulator of Egypt, Chastiser of Foreign Lands, Sun born of the gods, Possessor of the Upper and Lower country, the Hawk of Gold, Rich in Years, Greatest of the Powerful
- 3 the King of the Upper and Lower country, RA-USER-MA, Approved of the Sun, the Son of the Sun, RAMESES, beloved of AMEN, the Chief enriching the two countries with memorials in his name,

INVASION OF EGYPT BY THE GREEKS,

UNDER THE XIXth DYNASTY.

IN THE REIGN OF MENEPHTAH.

 TRANSLATED BY

S. BIRCH, LL.D.

THE text of this inscription is found on one of the walls of a small court lying South of the great outer wall of the principal Temple of Karnak in Egypt. The upper part of the inscription has been broken away and the top of each line has lost from a fourth to third part of its entire length, the lower portion was encumbered with ruins and remained inaccessible till it was uncovered by the late Vte. de Rouge. The text has been published by Professor Lepsius Denkmaeler Abth. III, 199, 2, by M. Brugsch, Geographische Inschriften, 4to, 1858, II. Taf. LXXXV, and more perfectly by M. Duemichen, Historische Inschriften. Taf. I-V. Translations of the inscription have also been made by the Vte. de Rouge, Revue Archéologique, 8vo, Paris 1867, p. 167, by M. Chabas, Études de l'Antiquité historique, 8vo, Paris 1870-73, the last of which is the most complete extending to the sixty-second line. The historical interest of this text is that it gives an historical account of the first years of the reign of Menephtah I. of the XIXth dynasty the son and successor of Rameses II. In it is detailed the invasion of Egypt from the West by the allied army of the Libyans, the Maxyes, the supposed Achæans or Greeks, the Sicilians, the Tyrrhenians or Etruscans, the Sardinians and the Lycians identified as such by M. de Rougé. It is the earliest historical mention hitherto discovered of the Greeks, while the great antiquity of the inscription shows the state of the population and colonization and civilization of the Mediterranean at that remote period. Exhibiting as it is thought to do the first point of contact between the Hellenic and Italian with the Egyptian and Hamitic races, it offers valuable data for the resolution of the problems involved in the earliest Hellenic legends, history and literature.

THE following short poetical eulogium of a king, apparently of Menephtah or Seti II of the XIXth dynasty, is found in Papyrus Anastasi 4 of the British Museum. It is published Select Papyri, Pl. lxxxiv, l. 2-9, lxxxv, l. 1. Although not divided by red dots it is clearly poetic in style, and is accordingly given in paragraphs. From the final line it appears to be addressed to the monarch after his death. Although the titles do not exactly correspond with those of Ramses II or Menephtah it appears to relate to him, as the papyrus is of his reign and that of Seti II of the same dynasty. It may indeed refer to this later monarch, but as no cartouche is given and the titles after the palatial or so called Horus ones are doubtful, it is uncertain who the monarch is to whom it refers. It has been translated by M. Chabas, L'Égypte aux temps de l'exode. Chalons 1873, p. 118.

THE POSSESSED PRINCESS.

TABLET OF RAMESES XII.

 TRANSLATED BY

S. BIRCH, LL.D.

THE Inscription of the departure of the ark of Khonsu or Chons, is found on a sandstone tablet in the Bibliothèque Nationale at Paris. The tablet has been published by M. Prisse, Monuments Égyptiens, fo. Paris, 1847, pl. xxiv. ; and a translation by S. Birch, Transactions of the Royal Society of Literature, New Series, 1853, Vol. IV. p. 217, the text and translation of the inscription by the late Vicomte Emmanuel De Rougé, Étude sur une stèle Égyptienne, 8vo., Paris, 1858 and a translation only by M. Brugsch, Histoire d'Égypte 4to. Berlin 1859 p. 206. The monarch in whose reign the event took place is supposed to be Rameses XII. of the XXIst dynasty but there is some difficulty about the succession of these later monarchs of the XXIst dynasty, as the discoveries of new papyri and documents have had the effect of displacing Rameses X.

An idea has been started by the Rev. D. Haigh in the Zeitschrift für ägyptische Sprache und Alterthumskunde 1874 p. 65, that Bakhten was connected with Assyria and that the king of the land of Bakhten mentioned in the tablet was Tiglath-Pileser I., but it cannot be considered as proved without further confirmation. The inscription is one of the most remarkable of the ancient Egyptian Monuments and records the possession of a princess of the land of Bakhten by a spirit or demon and the exorcism of the spirit by the Egyptian god Khonsu or Chons sent specially from Egypt for that purpose: similar possessions appear to have been not unknown to the Assyrians and Babylonians and an incident of these possessions is found in the Book of Tobit. It is clear from the name of the princess that she was of the Semitic race and that the country to which she belonged was some distance from Egypt.

THE POSSESSED PRINCESS.

SCENE representing the departure of the ark of the god KHONSU or CHONS borne by twelve priests and accompanied by two others one reading, the ark having a feather standard in front and a flabellum behind. The ark is called "KHONSU in Egypt NEFERHETP." Before the ark stands Rameses XII. wearing a helmet and tunic offering burning incense to the god. Over the head of the monarch is a vulture flying holding a signet. The inscriptions here read,

"The King of the Upper and Lower Egypt, the Lord of the two countries RA-TSER-MA, SATP-EN-RA the Son of the Sun of his race RAMESES beloved of AMEN, beloved of NISHEM, Giver of eternal life gives incense to (his) father KHONSU in the Uas¹ NEFERHETP. The protection of life behind all (his) limbs."

On the right side is seen the return of the ark of CHONS borne by a pole on the shoulders of 4 priests and met by Ha-neter-neb, the priest of the god offering fire. All the priests wear sandals, and scull caps. The inscription reads "Beloved of KHONSU the Giver of oracles in the Uas,¹ the great god, driver away, of possessing,² Giver of life like the Sun. NEAPOLITAN STELE.

AN INSCRIPTION OF THE PERSIAN PERIOD.

 TRANSLATED BY

C. W. GOODWIN, M.A.

THE inscription of which the following is a translation is at present in the Museum of Naples, and has been published by M. Brugsch, die Geographie des alten Aegyptens, 4to., Leipzig 1857, Taf. lviii., and some remarks on it are given in the same work, S. 40, 41, but it has not been previously translated. It as will be seen refers to events of the Persian period, and according to M. Brugsch is of the time of the conquest of Egypt by Alexander the Great, but no king is actually mentioned in the inscription by name, nor is the particular battle described in which the person for whom the inscription was made happened to be engaged. It is in fact an adoration to the god Chnoumis of whom the person was the priest. This sacerdotal personage appears to have taken part in the military operations although it is not mentioned that he held any military office. It has been arranged in paragraphs of sentences, and is an interesting example of the inscriptions of this later period, which is not much illustrated by contemporaneous monuments although well known from other sources. It is however always desirable to know the state of Egypt from its own contemporay documents of which this is an interesting example.

THE GREEK INSCRIPTION ON THE ROSETTA STONE.

THE FRENCH TRANSLATION OF
M. LETRONNE.

By S. BIRCH, LL.D.

THIS inscription in the Egyptian hieroglyphic, and enchorial or demotic, and in Greek, being a trilingual version of a synodical act of the priesthood assembled at Memphis in honour of Ptolemy V, or B.C. 198, is engraved on a fragment of a tablet of black granite at present in the British Museum. About one third of the hieroglyphic text and nearly all the demotic and Greek texts are complete. It was discovered at Rosetta the ancient Bolbitane, in 1799, and a facsimile of the inscription published by the Society of Antiquaries of London in 1802. Besides the publications of Heyne and Beck, that of Ameilhon, Eclaircissements sur l'inscription grecque trouvée à Rosette, Paris, 1803, of Porson, Tracts and Miscellaneous Criticisms edited by Kidd 1812, of Drumann, Commentationes, Königsberg 1822, die Inschrift von Rosette, Königsberg 1823, of Lenormant, le texte grec de l'inscription de Rosette, 1841, and of Letronne, Fragmenta historicorum græcorum, 1841, and Recueil des Inscriptions, 1842, and of Franz in Böckh, Corpus Inscriptionum græcarum, Vol. III. 1853, p. 334 and foll. are the most remarkable. The hieroglyphic text has been translated by Brugsch, Inscriptio Rosettana, 4to., Berlin, 1851, Chabas, L'Inscription hieroglyphique de Rosette, 8vo, Paris, 1867, and Sharpe, The Rosetta Stone in hieroglyphics and Greek, 8vo, London, 1871. The first attempt to translate the whole of the demotic version is that of Young, Hieroglyphics, Pl. X and foll. Brugsch, die Inschrift von Rosette, 1850. As the hieroglyphic text is too imperfect and the demotic as yet untranslated, the translation here given is from the Greek, of which a translation from the amended text of Letronne, has already been given by Birch in Arundale and Bonomi, Gallery of Antiquities, p. 114.

9 Inasmuch as King PTOLEMY, ever living, beloved of PHTHAS, god EPIPHANES, EUCCHARISTES, issue of the King PTOLEMY and of the Queen ARSINOE, gods PHILOPATOIRES, has filled the temples with benefactions and

11 full of generous piety, has consecrated to the temples revenues of money and provisions; and has supported great expenses in order to bring tranquillity to Egypt, and to establish order in all that concerns sacred affairs

12 has manifested with all his own power his sentiments of humanity; and of the public revenues and imposts collected in Egypt, he has finally suppressed some, and lightened others, so that the people and all the others

13 may have plenty under his reign; the sums due to the treasury by the inhabitants of Egypt, and those of the rest of his kingdom, which were very considerable, he has generally remitted; and those

14 imprisoned and those against whom law suits had commenced long since, he has freed them from all claims; he has moreover ordered that the revenues of the temples,

- and the contributions which had been granted them yearly, whether in
- 15 provisions or money, as also the proper portions assigned to the gods, as the vineyards, gardens, and other lands, that belonged to the gods under the reign of his father,
- 16 should remain on the same footing. As to the Priests, he has also commanded that they should pay nothing more to the appointment¹ fund than what they had been taxed to the first year under his father ; he has further remitted to those amongst the
- 17 sacred body² annual voyage to Alexandria, he has likewise ordered that there should no longer be levied the contribution for the navy ; of the byssus³ delivered in the temples to the royal treasury
- 18 he has remitted two thirds ; and all that had been previously neglected, he has re-established in proper order, taking all care that which it had been customary to perform for the gods should be executed as
- 19 it ought to be ; at the same time he has distributed justice to all like HERMES, the twice great⁴ ; he has moreover ordered, that the returned emigrants, both of the soldiers and all others who
- 20 had shown opposition in time of troubles, should keep the property in the possession of which they had re-entered : he has provided also that of cavalry and infantry forces and ships should be sent against those who had advanced

- 24 this place, he surrounded it with entrenchments, ditches and strong walls. The Nile having made a great flood in the eighth year, and as it usually does, inundating the
- 25 plains, the King has restrained it, in many places, by dyking the mouths of the rivers, for which works he has spent no small sum: after having established both cavalry and infantry troops to watch temples from the tax of an *artabe*¹ per *aroura*² of sacred land : also

ETHIOPIAN ANNALS.

THE STELE OF THE DREAM.

TRANSLATED BY

G. MASPERO.

THE Stèle du Songe was discovered together with those of Piankhi, Horsiategw, the Stèles de l'Intronisation and de l'Excommunication, at Napata, amongst the ruins of the Temple of Amen-Ra, Lord of the seats of both worlds, residing in Dû-uâb, that is on the Sacred Hill, the present Gebel Barkal. It was first analysed by Mariette-Bey in the Revue Archéologique, 1865, Tome II, p. 161, and was then published and translated by G. Maspero in the same Review, 1868, Tome I, p. 329. The text is to be found in Mariette's Monuments Divers Tome I, pl. 7, 8.

The inscription is surmounted by a picture representing two scenes : in the first of which

"The King of Upper and Lower Countries, Lord of both worlds RABAKA, Son of the Sun, Lord of the diadems NUAT (MEI)AMOUN, beloved by AMEN, ever-living like unto RA," accompanied by

"The Royal Sister, Queen of the land Qens (Nubia), QELHATAT," offers a great collar to his father

"AMEN-RA Lord of the seats of both worlds residing in Dû-uâb," who says :

"I give thee all life and power; I give thee the rising as a King of Upper and Lower Countries upon the seat of HOR of the living, like unto RA for ever."

The Queen "shakes the sistrum and pours a libation."

In the second picture, the same king is represented

"giving RA to the father AMEN, that he (the god) may do (for him, the King) the Dû-ânkh."

Behind the king,

"The Royal Sister and Wife, Queen of Egypt, GARARAI, shakes the sistrum and pours a libation"

"AMEN-RA, Lord of the seats of both worlds, residing in Thebes, saith: I give thee life and power all; I give thee all the lands, all the foreign countries, the barbarians collected under thy two sandals, for ever."

The king's name is difficult to ascertain owing to the form of one of the signs in it. After a careful inspection of the paper impression in the Louvre, I think that the uncertain sign is the syllable meri, mei, a little flattened as is usual in Ethiopian inscriptions. Some have sought to identify Nuat (Mei)amoun with the Urdamani of Assyrian texts, the stepson of Tahraqa.² I hold him to have been a successor of Urdamani and to have conquered Egypt about the time of the Dodecharchy, somewhere between 664 and 654 B.C.

¹ The gods are often represented proffering to kings the sacred Tau, symbol of life, saying at the same time Dû-ni-nak ânkh, "I give thee life." Hence the name of Dû-ânkh for the ceremony and the idiom ar dû-ânkh, "do the Dû-ânkh, the giving of life."

TRANSLATED FROM THE EGYPTIAN TEXT

BY

PAUL PIERRET,

Conservateur du Musée Egyptien du Louvre.

AND TRANSLATED FROM THE FRENCH BY

G. MASPERO.

THE Inscription of Queen Madsenen on a tablet of gray granite was probably found at Gebel-Barkal. After belonging successively to Linant-Bey, Prince Napoleon, and Vte. Emmanuel de Rougé, it has been recently given by M. Jacques de Rougé to the Musée Égyptien du Louvre where it stands now in the Salle Henri IV. It has been published and translated for the first time by M. P. Pierret, in his Études Égyptologiques, Tome I, p. 96 to 106, pl. 2, 4to., Paris, 1873.

It is surmounted by a picture in which

The King of Upper and Lower countries, RAMERKA, Son of the Sun ASPALUT is represented offering the goddess Ma, to

AMEN-RA, Bull of the land Kens, rejoicer of all lands, giver of life ;

MUT, the eye of RA, Lady of Heaven, giver of all life
for ever ;

KHONSU, giver of life for ever.

Three females are standing behind the king :

pouring a libation with the left hand ;

Second. (The Royal Sister, Royal Mother, wife of

name erased by accident, probably a daughter of king

ETHIOPIAN ANNALS.

STELE OF THE EXCOMMUNICATION.

TRANSLATED BY

G. MASPERO.

THIS tablet was found at Gebel-Barkal, and was analysed by M. Mariette in the Revue Archéologique, 1865, Tome II, p. 161. It was published in the Monuments Divers, Tome I, pl. 10 by the same, and translated by G. Maspero in the Revue Archéologique, 1871, Tome I, p. 8. Under the two-winged disk at the top of the tablet is “HUT, the great god, the giver of life,”

A king whose head and names have been carefully defaced, entitled “The good god, Lord of both Lands ever living” presents the goddess Mâ to the trinity of Ethiopia, Amen-Râ, Mut, and Khonsu-m-uàs.¹ Behind the king are various symbols of Eternity; before him stands the legend:

I give MA unto AMEN, that he may do (for me) the Dû-ânkḥ, like unto RA.

Before Amen is :

AMEN-RA, Lord of the seats of both worlds, residing in Dû-ûab, saith : " I give thee all life and power."

The inscription for Mut is :

MUT, Lady of heaven, Queen of gods, saith : " I give thee all health."

That of Khonsu-m-uàs :

KHONSU-M-UAS, Clerk of the divine cycle, HOR, Lord of joy, saith : " I give thee all joy."

The unknown king who erected the tablet must have been contemporaneous with the first sovereigns of the XXVIth dynasty, or about 600 B. C.

STÉLE OF THE EXCOMMUNICATION.

- 1 The good god, the like of TUM the creator god, the one who knows . . . , the fleet of foot¹ the duplicate of ATEN; giver of breath to all nostrils, he causes all creatures to subsist, (he) reigns in his strength, like (the god)
- 2 his begetter who leads His Majesty in each turn of all his beneficent exertions; the first-born who framed (his) answer
- 3 at the time he succeeded to his seat,² the King of Upper and Lower Countries , Son of the Sun, ³ beloved by AMEN-RA, Lord of the seats of both worlds, residing in Dû-ûab, the giver of life for ever.
- 4 In the second year after his rise, being His Majesty upon the seat of SEB, His Majesty went in state to the temple of (his) father AMEN of Napat, residing in Dû-ûab to expel that
- 5 sect, hateful unto god, which they call Tum-pesiu Per-tot khaïu,⁴ saying: "Let not
- 6 them enter the Temple of AMEN of Napat, residing in Dû-ûab, because of that word, a sin it is to tell it (anew), which they spoke in the Temple of AMEN. (For) they told

² This is an allusion to the Osirian myth. The "first-born son who framed an answer when he succeeded (lit., exchanged,) to his seat," Se semsem nuzti-w ushb sep deb er ast-w, is Hor-si-esi, who pleaded (gave answer, ushb) for his father against Set before the tribunal of gods when first he succeeded to the inheritance of his father. All dead men being identified with Osiris, all first-born sons were or might have been identified with Hor-si-esi, like the king who erected our tablet.

³ The names have been erased on purpose.

⁴ Lit., "The men (who say): Do not cook, let violence kill!"

- 7 a word, but god granted that it had not effect, (and) they plotted a plot in their hearts to slay the man who would not partake of their sin,¹ but god granted not 8 that it had effect: god caused the speech of their mouth which they had spoken to that effect to become the ruin of them, he smote them, causing the King's fire to pass (in the middle of them)."
9 To impress respectful dread in (the bosom of) all Prophets and of all Priests who go in to that august god² by the greatness of his spirits and the magnitude of his might, decrees the King: "If ever Prophet or Priest do an evil doing in the temples, let god smite 10 them; let not their feet be any more upon earth; let not their posterity continue after them so that the temple be not supplied with their crimes, but be free of their lie!"³

The sectarians so solemnly condemned by this King, would have been utterly unknown but for their proscription. Their name is composed with two sentences Tum pesi, "Do not cook," Per-tot khài, "Let violence kill," which may be said to embody the principal articles of their creed. If so it would not be unreasonable to compare the meaning of Tum pesi with a curious custom in Abyssinia that of eating brinde or raw meat. The use of brinde is probably a last remnant of former pagan habits. That it was held heretical by kings of the old Egyptian persuasion is sufficiently shown by the tenour of this document; that it ended by upsetting old prejudices may be drawn from the fact of this king's face and names having been carefully erased afterwards.

¹ Lit., "the man there is no sin of his."

² Amen of Napat.

³ Lit., "but their lie, it (the temple) be free of it (their lie)."

HYMN TO OSIRIS.

STELE OF AMEN-EM-HA, XVIIIth DYNASTY.

TRANSLATED BY

M. FRANÇOIS CHABAS.

THIS Stelè is one of the usual funereal tablets which are found in the cemeteries at Memphis and Thebes. The upper part of the tablet is round, and has the two sacred eyes and symbolical signets, which, as well as the winged globe, almost invariably surmount these sacred inscriptions, and of which the meaning has not yet been satisfactorily determined.

Immediately below this emblem are two vignettes, in the first a functionary named Amen-em-ha (Amen at the beginning) presents a funereal offering to his father Amen-mes (Amen's son, or, born of Amen) the steward of the deity's flocks,¹ beside whom is his deceased wife Nefer-t-arū and a young boy, his son, Amen-em-ua (Amen in the bark). In the second vignette, a principal priest (heb) of Osiris, dressed in the sacerdotal leopard's skin, offers incense to the lady Te-bok, (The servant maid); below is a row of kneeling figures, namely: two sons, Si-t-mau

(Son of the mother), Amen-Ken (Amon the warlike), and four daughters, Meri-t-ma (Loving justice), Amen-Set (Daughter of Amen), Souten-mau (Royal Mother), and Hui-em-neter (Food for god). As there is no indication of relationship between the subjects of the two vignettes, it may be inferred that Te-Bok was a second wife of Amen-em-ha.

The lower portion of the tablet is filled up with the following Hymn to Osiris, written in twenty-eight lines of hieroglyphics which are very well preserved, except wherever the name of the deity Amen occurs, which has been hammered out¹ evidently at the time of the religious revolution in Egypt under the reign of Amenophis IV. who assuming the name of Chu-en-aten (Splendour, or, Glory of the solar disk), overthrew the worship of the older divinities and principally that of Amen-Ra; a change which was again overthrown in the period of his successors, who restored the former letters. From the style of art and other indications it is almost certain that the monument was erected in the reign of Thothmes I of the XVIIIth dynasty.

The Stèle is now deposited in the Bibliotheque Nationale, Paris, and has been published by M. Chabas in the Revue Archéologique, May-June, 1857, after a paper stamp taken by the late M. Devéria.

A HYMN TO OSIRIS.

1 Adoration of OSIRIS by the Steward of the flocks, AMEN-EM-HA, Son of the Lady NEFER-T-ARI: he says,

HYMN TO THE NILE.

 TRANSLATED BY

REV. F. C. COOK,

 Canon of Exeter, Preacher of Lincoln's Inn, Chaplain in Ordinary to the Queen.

THIS Hymn is important as bearing witness to the state of religious thought in Egypt in the time of Merneptah, the son of Rameses II, XIXth dynasty, according to the generality of Egyptologers, contemporary with Moses.¹ It is extant in two papyri, Sallicr ii. p. 11, Select Papyri, pl. xx.-xxiii., and Anastasi vii. Select Papyri, pl. cxxxiv.-cxxxix., published by the Trustees of the British Museum.

The name of the author Enna is well known. He wrote the Romance of the Two Brothers, and other works preserved in the Select Papyri, and partially translated by Mr. Goodwin, in Cambridge Essays, 1858, p. 257, and M. G. Maspero, Genre épistolaire chez les anciens Égyptiens. Paris, 1872.

A translation of this hymn was published by Maspero, Hymne au Nil, in 1868, with an introduction and critical notes of great value.

The attention of the reader is specially called to the metrical structure of this poem. The stanzas, containing upon an average ten couplets, are distinctly marked in the original, the first word in each being written in red letters ; hence the origin of rubricated MSS. Each clause also has a red point at the close. The resemblance with the earliest Hebrew poems has been pointed out by the translator in the Introduction to the Book of Psalms, and in the Notes on Exodus, in the Speaker's Commentary on the Bible.

HYMN TO THE NILE.

I. STROPHE.

Adoration of the Nile.

- 1 HAIL to thee O Nile !
- 2 Thou shewest thyself in this land,
- 3 Coming in peace, giving life to Egypt :
- 4 O AMMON, (thou) leadest night unto day,¹
- 5 A leading that rejoices the heart !
- 6 Overflowing the gardens created by RA.²
- 7 Giving life to all animals ;
- 8 Watering the land without ceasing :
- 9 The way of heaven descending :³
- 10 Lover of food, bestower of corn,
- 11 Giving light to every home, O PTAH !

¹ If this rendering is correct, the meaning must be that the god of the Nile is the secret source of light, see section 3, line 5, and section 8, line 1. The attributes of Egyptian gods, who represent the unknown under various aspects, are interchangeable to a great extent; here the Nile is Ammon, doing also the work of Ra. Dr. Birch suggests that the rendering may be, "hiding his course night and day."

² Ra, the sun-god, who is represented as delighting in flowers, see Ritual, c. LXXXI, "I am the pure lily which comes out of the fields of Ra."

³ The Nile-god traverses heaven; his course there corresponds to that of the river on earth.

II.

- 1 Lord of fishes, when the inundation returns
- 2 No fowls fall on the cultures.¹
- 3 Maker of spelt ; creator of wheat :
- 4 who maintaineth the temples !
- 5 Idle hands he loathes²
- 6 For myriads, for all the wretched.
- 7 If the gods in heaven are grieved,³
- 8 Then sorrow cometh on men.

III.

- 1 He maketh the whole land open to the oxen,⁴
- 2 And the great and the small are rejoicing ;
- 3 The response of men at his coming !⁵
- 4 His likeness is NUM !⁶
- 5 He shineth, then the land exulteth !
- 6 All bellies are in joy !
- 7 Every creature receives nourishment !
- 8 All teeth get food.

IV.

- 1 Bringer of food ! Great Lord of provisions !
- 2 Creator of all good things !

¹ See x. 6. This is obscure, but it may mean that the Nile-god protects the newly sown fields from the birds.

² I.e., he sets them at work. Thus Ritual, c. xv. 20, "Ra, the giver of food, destroys all place for idleness, cuts off all excuse."

³ As they are by idleness ; see Ritual, cxxv, p. cclv, Birch.

⁴ I.e., he makes it ready for cultivation.

⁵ Their joy and gratitude respond to his advance.

⁶ Num is the Nile-god regarded as giving life.

- 3 Lord of terrors ¹ and of choicest joys !
 4 All are combined in him.
 5 He produceth grass for the oxen ;
 6 Providing victims for every god.
 7 The choice incense is that which he supplies.
 8 Lord in both regions,
 9 He filleth the granaries, enricheth the storehouses,
 10 He careth for the state of the poor.

V.

- 1 He causeth growth to fulfil all desires,
 2 He never wearies of it.
 3 He maketh his might a buckler.²
 4 He is not graven in marble,³
 5 As an image bearing the double crown.
 6 He is not beheld :
 7 He hath neither ministrants nor offerings :
 8 He is not adored in sanctuaries :
 9 His abode is not known :
 10 No shrine is found with painted figures. ⁴

¹ The Egyptian word corresponds to Αρσαφης, which according to Plutarch, signifies τὸ ἀνδρεῖον. Isis et Osiris, c. 37. The Egyptians, like all ancient people, identify terror with strength or greatness.

² This scriptural phrase comes in abruptly. It is probably drawn from some older source.

³ The True Deity is not represented by any image. This is a relic of primeval monotheism : out of place as referring to the Nile, but pointing to a deeper and sounder faith. Compare the laws of Manu, i. 5-7.

⁴ See last line of section 13. There are no shrines covered, as usual, with coloured hieroglyphics. The whole of this passage is of extreme importance, showing that, apart from all objects of idolatrous worship, the old Egyptian recognised the existence of a Supreme God, unknown and inconceivable ; the true source of all power and goodness. Compare the oldest forms of the 17th chapter of the funeral Ritual in Lepsius Älteste Texte.

VI.

- 1 There is no building that can contain him !¹
- 2 There is no counsellor ² in thy heart !
- 3 Thy youth delight in thee, thy children :
- 4 Thou directest ³ them as King.
- 5 Thy law is established in the whole land,
- 6 In the presence of thy servants in the North :⁴
- 7 Every eye is satisfied with him :⁵
- 8 He careth for the abundance of his blessings.

VII.

- 1 The inundation comes, (then) cometh rejoicing ;
- 2 Every heart exulteth :
- 3 The tooth of the crocodiles, the children of NEITH ⁶
- 4 (Even) the circle of the gods who are counted with thee.
- 5 Doth not its outburst water the fields,
- 6 Overcoming mortals (with joy) :
- 7 Watering one to produce another.⁷
- 8 There is none who worketh with him ;
- 9 He produces food without the aid of NEITH.⁸
- 10 Mortals he causes to rejoice.

² Is. xi. 13, 14.

³ Or "thou givest them counsels, orderest all their goings."

⁴ I.e. "all magistrates are the servants of the deity, and administer his law from South to North."

⁵ Maspero "par lui est bue l'eau (les pleurs) de tous les yeux," i.e. "he wipes away tears from all eyes."

⁶ Dr. Birch, to whom I am indebted for this rendering, observes that the goddess Neith is often represented with two crocodiles sucking her breasts.

⁷ I.e. "The Nile fills all mortals with the languor of desire, and gives fecundity."

⁸ I.e. "without needing rain, the gift of the goddess of heaven." Such seems to be the meaning of a very obscure passage.

VIII.

- 1 He giveth light on his coming from darkness :¹
- 2 In the pastures of his cattle
- 3 His might produceth all :
- 4 What was not, his moisture bringeth to life.
- 5 Men are clothed to fill his gardens :
- 6 He careth for his labourers.
- 7 He maketh even and noontide,
- 8 He is the infinite PTAH and KABES.²
- 9 He createth all works therein,
- 10 All writings, all sacred words,
- 11 All his implements in the North.³

IX.

- 1 He enters with words the interior of his house,⁴
- 2 When he willeth he goeth forth from his mystic fane.
- 3 Thy wrath is destruction of fishes.⁵
- 4 Then⁶ men implore thee for the waters of the season.
- 5 "That the Thebaid may be seen like the Delta.
- 6 That every man be seen bearing his tools,
- 7 No man left behind his comrade !
- 8 Let the clothed be unclothed,

² The meaning is, evidently, that he combines the attributes of Ptah the Demiurge, and Kabes, an unknown god.

³ All things serviceable to man, arms, implements, etc.

⁴ This seems to mean, he gives oracles at his shrine. Observe the inconsistency of this with section 5.

⁵ Causing scarcity of food in the land. See Ex. viii. 18, 21.

⁶ In a season of scarcity prayers are offered for supply of water. The following lines seem to describe great haste when the inundation comes on; none wait for their clothing, even when valuable, and the nightly solemnities are broken up: but the passage is obscure.

- 9 No adornments for the sons of nobles,
- 10 No circle of gods in the night !”
- 11 The response (of the god) is refreshing water,
- 12 Filling all men with fatness.

X.

- 1 Establisher of justice ! men rejoice
- 2 With flattering words to worship¹ thee,
- 3 Worshipped together with the mighty water !
- 4 Men present offerings of corn,
- 5 Adoring all the gods :
- 6 No fowls fall on the land.²
- 7 Thy hand is adorned with gold,³
- 8 As moulded of an ingot of gold,
- 9 Precious as pure lapis lazuli,⁴
- 10 Corn in its state of germination is not eaten.⁵

XI.

- 1 The hymn is addressed to thee with the harp ;
- 2 It is played with a (skilful) hand to thee !
- 3 The youths rejoice at thee !
- 4 Thy own children.
- 5 Thou hast rewarded their labour.
- 6 There is a great one adorning the land ;
- 7 An enlightener, a buckler in front of men,
- 8 Quickening the heart in depression.
- 9 Loving the increase of all his cattle.

¹ Lit. answer, “i.e., with thanks and prayers, when thou bringest the water in abundance.”

² See II. 2.

³ The gold represents the preciousness of the gift of food.

⁴ This is often mentioned in the inscriptions amongst the most precious stones.

⁵ See note on II. 4.

XII.

- 1 Thou shinest in the city of the King ;
- 2 Then the householders are satiated with good things,
- 3 The poor man laughs at the lotus.¹
- 4 All things are perfectly ordered.
- 5 Every kind of herb for thy children.
- 6 If food should fail,
- 7 All enjoyment is cast on the ground,
- 8 The land falls in weariness.

XIII.

- 1 O inundation of Nile, offerings are made to thee :
- 2 Oxen are slain to thee :
- 3 Great festivals are kept for thee ;
- 4 Fowls are sacrificed to thee ;
- 5 Beasts of the field are caught for thee
- 6 Pure flames are offered to thee ;
- 7 Offerings are made to every god,
- 8 As they are made unto Nile.
- 9 Incense ascends unto heaven,
- 10 Oxen, bulls, fowls are burnt !
- 11 Nile makes for himself chasms in the Thebaid ;²
- 12 Unknown is his name in heaven,
- 13 He doth not manifest his forms !
- 14 Vain are all representations !³

XIV.

- 1 Mortals extol (him), and the cycle of gods !
- 2 Awe is felt by the terrible ones ;

¹ Which he ate when he could get nothing else.

² An allusion to the legend that the Nile comes forth from two openings in the South.

³ See V., last line.

- 3 His son¹ is made Lord of all,
4 To enlighten all Egypt.²
5 Shine forth, shine forth, O Nile ! shine forth !
6 Giving life to men by his oxen :
7 Giving life to his oxen by the pastures !
8 Shine forth in glory, O Nile.

TRANSLATED BY

C. W. GOODWIN, M.A.

THIS Dirge or Hymn, which is that alluded to by Herodotus,¹ is contained in one of the Harris Papyri (No. 500), the same from which I have already translated the "Story of the Doomed Prince." The first line of the Hymn ascribes it to the authorship of King Antuf, one of the Pharaohs of the XIth Dynasty.

¹ "At the entertainments of the rich, just as the company is about to rise from the repast, a small coffin is carried round, containing a perfect representation of a dead body; it is in size sometimes of one, but never more than two cubits, and as it is shown to the guests in rotation the bearer exclaims, 'Cast your eyes on this figure, after death you yourself will resemble it; drink then, and be happy.'"—Herodotus, Euterpe, xxviii.

The papyrus itself is however of the time of Thothmes III, XVIIIth Dynasty, but that is no reason why all the Texts in the MSS. should be of the latter date. The translation here given was printed by myself for the first time in the Transactions of the Society of Biblical Archæology, Vol. iii., part I, but the Hieroglyphic Text remains yet to be published. A fragment of another copy of this identical Hymn is to be found in the Monumens du Musée de Leide iii. partie, pl. 12, and from it several words which were wanting in the Harris papyrus have been restored.

³ Imhotep, the son of the primæval deity Ptah, was the mythical author of various arts and sciences. The Greeks spelt the name Ἴμώθης Imopth, but more frequently substituted the name Ἀσκληπίος, Asclepius.

⁴ Hartatef was the son of King Menkera (Mycerinus), to whom the discovery of part of the Ritual, cap. lxiv. is attributed, and who was the author of a mystical work.

THE BOOK OF RESPIRATIONS.

TRANSLATED BY

P. J. DE HORRACK.

THE manuscript, a translation of which here follows, belongs to the Museum of the Louvre in Paris, where it is registered under the No. 3284, (Devéria, Catalogue des MS. égypt. p. 132). It probably date from the epoch of the Ptolemies. It is in hieratic writing and generally known by the name of Book of respirations, or Book of the Breaths of Life according to Mr. Le Page Renouf's ingenious interpretation. This book seems to have been deposited exclusively with the mummies of the priests and priestesses of the god Ammon-Ra, if we may judge from the title: inserted into the manuscripts.

Dr. Brugsch in 1851, first directed the attention of Egyptologists to this curious work, by publishing a transcription in hieroglyphics of a hieratic text in the Berlin Museum, with a Latin translation, under the title of Shai an Sinsin, sive liber Metempsychosis, etc. He added to this a copy of a hieratic text of the same book found in Denon, Voyage en Égypte, pl. 136.

A full analysis of this literary composition has also been given by Dr. Samuel Birch, in his Introduction to the Rhind Papyri, London 1863.

The Paris manuscript is as yet unpublished, but a copy of it will be produced ere long by the present translator. A few passages corrupted by the ancient scribe have been restored from copies of the same text, which are in the Egyptian Museum of the Louvre.

The Book of Respirations has a great analogy with that of the Lamentations of Isis and Iephthys. It not only makes allusion to the formulæ and acts by means of which the resurrection is effected, but also treats of the life after death; thus greatly increasing our knowledge of the religious system of the ancient Egyptians.

THE BOOK OF RESPIRATIONS.

1 COMMENCEMENT of the Book of Respirations made by ISIS for her brother OSIRIS,
 to give life to his soul,
 to give life to his body,
 to rejuvenate all his members anew ;
 that he may reach the horizon with his father, the Sun ;
 that his soul may rise to Heaven in the disk of the Moon ;
 that his body may shine in the stars of Orion on the bosom of NU-T ;¹
 in order that this may also happen to the OSIRIS, divine Father, Prophet of AMMON-RA, King of the gods,
 Prophet of KHEM, of AMMON-RA, bull of his mother,
 in his great abode,
 ASAR-AAU, justified,
 Son of the Prophet of the same order, NES-PAUT-TA-TI, justified.
 Conceal (it), conceal (it) !
 Let it not be read by any one.
 It is profitable to the person who is in the divine Nether-World.
 He liveth in reality millions of times anew.

2 Words spoken :
 Hail to the OSIRIS N !² thou art pure ;
 thy heart is pure,
 thy fore-part is purified,

² Here was written the name of the deceased.

thy hind-part is cleansed,
 thy middle is in *Bat*¹ and natron.
 No member in thee is faulty.
 The OSIRIS N is (made) pure by the lotions from the Fields of Peace, at the North of the Fields of Sanehem-u.

The goddesses UATI (and) SUBEN have purified thee at the eighth hour of the night and at the eighth hour of the day.

Come OSIRIS N !

Thou dost enter the Hall of the Two Goddesses of Truth.
 Thou art purified of all sin, of all crime.
 Stone of Truth is thy name.

3 Hail to the OSIRIS N !

Thou, being very pure, dost enter the Lower Heaven.
 The Two goddesses of Justice have purified thee in the great Hall.

A purification hath been made to thee in the Hall of Seb.
 Thy members have been purified in the Hall of Shu.³

Thou seest RA in his setting,
 (as) Atum⁴ in the evening.

AMMON is near to thee, to give thee breath,
 PTAH, to form thy members.

Thou dost enter the horizon with the Sun.
 Thy soul is received in the barque Neshem⁵ with OSIRIS.
 Thy soul is divinized in the Hall of Seb.
 Thou art justified for ever and ever.

4 Hail to the OSIRIS N !

Thine individuality is permanent.
 Thy body is durable.

¹ Probably a substance used for purifying and perfuming.

² The earth.

³ Heaven.

⁴ The setting sun.

⁵ The solar barque.

Thy mummy doth germinate.

Thou art not repulsed from heaven, (neither from) earth.

Thy face is illuminated near the Sun.

Thy soul liveth near to AMMON.

Thy body is rejuvenated near to OSIRIS.

Thou dost breathe for ever and ever.

- 5 Thy soul maketh thee offerings, each day, of bread, of drinks, of oxen, of geese, of fresh water, of condiments.

Thou comest to justify it.

Thy flesh is on thy bones,
like unto thy form on earth.

Thou dost imbibe into thy body.

Thou eatest with thy mouth.

Thou receivest bread, with the souls of the gods.

ANUBIS doth guard thee.

He is thy protection.

Thou art not repulsed from the gates of the Lower Heaven.

THOTH, the doubly great, the Lord of Sesennu, cometh to thee.

He writeth for thee the Book of Respirations, with his own fingers.

Thy soul doth breathe for ever and ever.

Thou dost renew thy form on earth, among the living.

Thou art divinized with the souls of the gods.

Thy heart is the heart of RA.

Thy members are the members of the great god.¹

Thou livest for ever and ever.

- 6 Hail to the OSIRIS N !

AMMON is with thee each day to render thee life.

APHERU openeth to thee the right way.

Thou seest with thine eyes ;

¹ Osiris.

thou hearest with thine ears ;
 thou speakest with thy mouth ;
 thou walkest with thy legs ;
 Thy soul is divinized in Heaven,
 to make all the transformations it desireth.
 Thou makest the joy of the sacred persea in An.
 Thou awakenest each day.
 Thou seest the rays of RA.
 AMMON cometh to thee with the breath of life.
 He granteth to thee to breathe in thy coffin.
 Thou comest on earth each day,
 the Book of Respirations of THOTH being thy protection.
 Thou breathest by it each day.
 Thine eyes behold the rays of the disk.
 Truth is spoken to thee before OSIRIS.
 The formulæ of justification are on thy body.
 HORUS, the defender of his father, protecteth thy body.
 He divinizeth thy soul as well as (those) of all the gods.
 The soul of RA giveth life to thy soul.
 The soul of SHU filleth thy respiratory organs with soft breath.¹

- 7 Hail to the OSIRIS N !
 Thy soul doth breathe in the place thou lovest.
 Thou art in the dwelling of OSIRIS, who resideth in the West.
 Thy person is most pure.
 Thou dost arrive in Abydos.
 He (OSIRIS) filleth thy dwelling Hotep with provisions.
 8 Hail to the OSIRIS N !
 The gods of all Egypt come to thee.
 Thou art guided towards the end of centuries.
 Thy soul liveth.
 Thou dost follow OSIRIS.

¹ Another version : uniteth itself (to) the breath of thy nostrils.

Thou breathest in Rusta.

Secret care is taken of thee by the Lord of Sati¹ and by the great god.²

Thy body liveth in Tattu (and in) Nifur.

Thy soul liveth in Heaven for ever.

9 Hail to the OSIRIS N !

SECHET prevaiileth against what is injurious to thee.

HAR-AA-HETU taketh care of thee.

HAR-SHET doth form thy heart.

HAR-MAA doth guard thy body.

Thou continuest in life, health (and) strength.

Thou art established upon thy throne in Ta-ser.

Come, OSIRIS N !

Thou appearest in thy form.

Strengthened by thine ornaments³

thou art prepared for life.

Thou remainest in a healthful state ;

thou walkest, thou breathest everywhere.⁴

The Sun doth rise upon thine abode.

Like unto OSIRIS, thou breathest, thou livest by his rays.

AMMON-RA giveth life to thee.

He doth enlighten thee by the Book of Respirations.

Thou dost follow OSIRIS and HORUS, Lord of the sacred barque.

Thou art as the greatest of the gods among the gods.

Thy beautiful face liveth (in) thy children.

Thy name doth always prosper.

Come to the great temple in Tattu.

Thou wilt see him who resideth in the West,
in the Ka-festival.

² Osiris.

³ Those of the mummy.

⁴ This is the acknowledgment of the resurrection effected by the ceremonies of the mummification. I am indebted to the friendly aid of M. Chabas for the translation of this and one or two other passages.

Delicious is thy perfume as that of the blessed ;
great thy name among the elect.

10 Hail to the OSIRIS N !

Thy soul liveth by the Book of Respirations.
Thou unitest thyself to the Book of Respirations.
Thou dost enter the Lower Heaven ;
thine enemies are not (there).
Thou art a divine soul in Tattu.¹
Thy heart is thine ;
it is (no longer) separated from thee.
Thine eyes are thine ;
they open each day.

11^a Words spoken by the gods who accompany OSIRIS, to the OSIRIS N :

Thou dost follow RA.
Thou dost follow OSIRIS.
Thy soul liveth for ever and ever.

11^b Words spoken by the gods who dwell in the Lower Heaven (like) OSIRIS of the West, to the OSIRIS N :

Let them open to him at the gates of the Lower Heaven.
*He is received*² in the divine Nether-World,
that his soul may live for ever.
He buildeth a dwelling in the divine Nether-World.
He is rewarded.³
He hath received the Book of Respirations,
that he may breathe.

12 Royal offering to OSIRIS who resideth in the West, great god, Lord of Abydos,
that he may give offerings of bread, of hak, of oxen, of geese, of wine, of the liquor
aket, of bread Hotep,

of good provisions of all kinds,
to the OSIRIS N.

Thy soul liveth.

Thy body doth germinate,
by order of RA himself,
without pain, without injury,
like unto RA for ever and ever.

13 Oh Strider, coming out of AN,¹

the OSIRIS N hath not committed any sin.

Oh Mighty of the Moment, coming out of Kerau,
the OSIRIS N hath not done any evil.

Oh Nostril, coming out of Sesennu,²

the OSIRIS N hath not been exacting.

Oh Devourer of the Eye, coming out of Kerti,

the OSIRIS N hath not obtained anything by theft.

Oh Impure of visage, coming out of Rusta,

the OSIRIS N hath not been angry.

Oh Lion-gods, coming forth from heaven,

the OSIRIS N hath not committed any sin by reason of hardness of heart (?)

Oh Fiery-Eyed, coming out of Sechem,

the OSIRIS N hath not been weak.

14 Oh ye gods who dwell in the Lower Heaven, hearken unto the voice of OSIRIS N.

He is near unto you.

There is no fault in him.

No informer riseth up against him.

He liveth in the truth.

He doth nourish himself with truth.

The gods are satisfied with all that he hath done.

He hath given food to the hungry,

drink to the thirsty,

clothes to the naked.

¹ Heliopolis.

² Hermopolis.

He hath given the sacred food to the gods,
 the funeral repasts to the pure Spirits.
 No complaint hath been made against him before any of the gods.

Let him enter (then) into the Lower Heaven without being repulsed.

Let him follow OSIRIS, with the gods of Kerti.

He is favoured among the faithful,¹

(and) divinized among the perfected.

Let him live !

Let his soul live !

His soul is received wherever it willeth.

(He) hath received the Book of Respirations,

that he may breathe with his soul,

(with) that of the Lower Heaven, and that he may make any transformation at his will,

like (the inhabitants) of the West ;²

that his soul may go wherever it desireth, living on the earth for ever and ever.

He is towed (like) OSIRIS into the Great Pool of Khons.

When he has retaken possession of his heart³

the Book of Respirations is concealed in (the coffin).

It is (covered) with writing upon Suten, both inside and outside (and) placed underneath his left arm,

evenly with his heart ;

When the Book has been made for him

then he breathes with the souls of the gods for ever and ever.⁴

It is finished.

⁴ Another version : "this volume of the Book of Respirations is made for him and the souls of the gods."

THE TALE OF SETNAU.

FROM THE VERSION

DR. HEINRICH BRUGSCH-BEY.

THE original of the following tale is written in the Demotic character and represents a stage of the Egyptian language intermediate between the ancient language and the Coptic. The manuscript which contains it is one of the treasures of the Vice Regal Museum at Boulaq, and was discovered at Thebes in a wooden box containing other manuscripts in hieratic and Coptic writing which had belonged to a Coptic monk and had been deposited with him in his tomb. Towards the end of 1865 M. Mariette brought the papyrus under the notice of Dr. Brugsch who stands without a rival in the decipherment and interpretation of demotic texts. Dr. Brugsch's translation of the document appeared in the Revue Archéologique of 1867. A facsimile of the original text was published in the first volume of the Papyrus Égyptiens du Musée de Boulaq edited by M. Mariette (1871).

The manuscript at present consists of four pages, and they are numbered, the first being marked as page 3; from which it is clear that two pages are missing, and their destruction has been fatal to the first words of each of the forty lines of the third page.

If we possessed the first two pages of the papyrus, says Dr. Brugsch, we should probably be able at once to explain the origin or the occasion of the facts which are developed in the narrative before the eyes of the reader and which prove that the Egyptian writer is not describing the acts and fortunes of living persons but, on the contrary, of the dead, of mummies, who not only converse in their catacomb about certain circumstances of their past life upon earth, but have even the power of leaving their tomb and coffin and mixing in the society of the living. Or if this hypothesis is not acceptable we should be obliged to suppose that we have to do with a mere recital of a dream.

The principal personage of the story is Setnau Chā-em-uset son of a king named User-māt, whom Dr. Brugsch considers as identical with the great Rameses II. Ptah-nefer-ka and Ahura, a brother and sister married together are children of a king Mer-neb-ptah whose name (in this orthography at least) is unknown to history. Merhu is the child of Ptahneferka and Ahura. The scene is placed at Memphis in lower Egypt and at Coptos in Upper Egypt on the eastern bank of the Nile, a place renowned for a sanctuary dedicated to the goddess Isis and her son Harpocrates.

The first page of our manuscript in its present state begins in the middle of a conversation wherein the lady Ahura, sister and wife of Ptah-nefer-ka relates to Setnau the events of her life since her marriage with Ptah-nefer-ka until her own death and the deaths of her husband and child.

P. LE PAGE RENOUF.

THE TALE OF SETNAU.

“ It is thou who wouldst have turned me away from it if I had had no child after the two children. Ought not the two to be married together? I shall marry PTAH-NEFER-KA to the daughter of a captain of soldiers (and) AHURA to the son of another Captain of soldiers, as it has long been the custom in our family.

The time came for beginning the rejoicings before the King. I was called and conducted to the festive entertainments (of the King). (I was) richly attired. I had not the same look as on the previous day. Did not the King say to me, “AHURA, it is not thou who hast sent them to me, on the occasion of this dispute, to say I would wish to marry (the son of a) great (personage)?” I said to him, “I would wish to marry the son of a Captain of soldiers. He would wish to marry the daughter of another Captain of soldiers, as it has long been the custom in our family.” I laughed and the King laughed. (Then said) the King to the Chief of the palace: “Let AHURA be conducted during the night to the house of PTAH-NEFER-KA, let all kinds of beautiful things be taken with her.” My marriage took place in the house of PTAH-NEFER-KA to bring the presents in silver and in gold. They were all brought to me from the royal palace. PTAH-NEFER-KA spent a happy day with me he received all the precious things of the royal palace and he slept with me that night. He did not recognise me. “except that one of us loves the other.” The time of my usual disturbances arrived, and I had them not. The King was informed of this and he was much pleased. The King sent many things he caused most beautiful presents to be brought to me in silver and gold and raiment of byssus. The time of my delivery arrived and I brought into the world this son who is before thee and who was named MER-HU. It was inscribed in the register of the house of the Sacred Scribes.

. PTAH-NEFER-KA, my brother, remained upon earth. Having gone to the Necropolis of Memphis, he read the writings which are in the tombs of the Kings, and the tablets in hieroglyphic writing and the writings which are on (the . . . for he was very learned . . .) exceedingly, with respect to writings. After this, there was a Cher¹ named NESPTAH. PTAH-NEFER-KA having gone to the temple to offer his prayer, it happened that he walked behind the Cher reading the writings which are on the chapels of the gods. (. . . he laughed.) PTAH-NEFER-KA said to him: "Wherefore laughest thou at me?" He said "I am not laughing at thee, but ought I not to laugh when thou readest some writings without (. . . if) thou desirest to read a writing, come to me. I will conduct thee to the spot where the book is which the god THOTH wrote with his hand. Its commencement . . . below, after the gods. Two pages of the writing, those which are on the back, if thou (recitest, thou shalt) charm heaven, the earth, the abyss, the mountains, the seas. Thou shalt know what relates to the birds of the sky and the reptiles, and all that is said of them. Thou shalt see the fishes of the water and (the divine power will raise them to the surface of the water). If thou readest the second page, it will happen that if thou art in the Amenti, thou wilt have power to resume the form which thou hadst upon earth. Thou shalt see the Sun-god RA who riseth up in heaven and the cycle of his nine gods, and the moon in its form at its rising." " (By) the King who liveth. Let a good word be said to me. Whatsoever thou askest I will give it to thee. Send me to the place where the book is." The Priest said to PTAH-NEFER-KA: "If thou askest to be sent (to this place) (I shall do it on condition) that thou shalt give me a hundred pieces of silver for my burial; if thou givest me them" PTAH-NEFER-KA called a young servant. He caused the hundred pieces of silver to be given to the Priest he caused them to be given. . . . (Then the Priest said to) PTAH-NEFER-KA: "The book in question is in the middle of the river of Coptos, in a box of iron, the box of iron is in a box of (brass, the box of brass is) in a box of bronze, the box of bronze is in a box of ivory and ebony, the box of ivory and ebony is in a (box of silver,) the box of silver is in a box of gold and the book is in this. There are a serpent, a scorpion and all sorts of reptiles together in the box in which the book is. It is . . ." . . of this box at the time of the discourse which had the Priest . . . had held to PTAH-NEFER-KA. He knew not where in the world he was. He went forth out of the temple and he said ("Let me remember) all the (words) that he has (said). I will go to Coptos and take the book, without stopping at the north. But if I were to suppose that the Priest has told lies speak before him. . . . The war, the nome of Thebes my hand and that of PTAH-NEFER-KA that he should not go to Coptos. He did not listen to (this word). He presented himself before (the King. He repeated) to the King all that the Priest had said. The King said to him "What is it that thou desirest? I said to him "Let a royal bark be given to me with all its crew (Let me be permitted) to take AHURA (and MERHU) her young child to the south with me. I shall bring back this book. I shall not stop." The royal bark was given to him, with its crew. We embarked in the ship at the port, we sailed and we arrived (at Coptos) and lo, the Priests of the goddess Isis of Coptos and the High Priest of Coptos came down before us. They delayed not to present themselves before PTAH-NEFER-KA. Their wives came down before me. (We entered) the temple of ISIS and HARPOCRATES. PTAH-NEFER-KA sent for an ox, a goose and some wine to make a sacrifice and a libation in the presence of ISIS of Coptos and HARPOCRATES. We were conducted into a very beautiful house. (We entered.) PTAH-NEFER-KA remained four days. He made holiday with the Priests of ISIS of Coptos. The wives of the Priests of Isis made holiday with me in my presence. The morning of our fifth day arrived. PTAH-NEFER-KA (gave orders to the High) Priest who was by him to make a construction filled with his workmen and tools. He told them of the writing. He made them alive and gave them the breath. He made them go down to the sea side. He filled the royal bark with sand he . . . to the harbour.

I approached till in front of the river of Coptos before me, for I wished to know what was in it. He said "Workmen, work for me till the place in which the book is." . . (they worked) by night as well as by day. Having arrived at it, in three days, he caused the sand to be thrown before him. A took place in the river, announcing that one had reached the serpent, the scorpion and all the reptiles which were together with (the box . . .) in it, from the discovery of a small serpent with the box aforesaid. He read the writing when he came to the serpent, the scorpion and all the reptiles which were together with the box. He was not able to make them come out. (But he seized) . . . the little serpent which was inside. Having a knife with him he killed it: but it came to life again and resumed its former shape. Taking a sword he killed it a second time; it came to life once more having resumed its form. He killed it a third time and it then remained in two pieces. He placed sand between the two. The serpent did not resume its former shape. PTAH-NEFER-KA went to the place where the box was. (He discovered the box. It was) of iron, this one. He opened it and perceived a box of brass. He opened it and perceived a box of bronze. He perceived a box of ivory and ebony. (He perceived a box of silver.) He opened it and perceived a box of gold. He opened it and perceived the box within. He took the book out of the golden box. He read a page of the writing. (He charmed heaven, the earth, the abyss) the mountains, the seas. He understood what related to the birds of the sky and to the fishes of the sea and the fourfooted beasts of the mountain. It was spoken in it of them all. He read another page of the writing and he saw (the sun rising in heaven and the cycle of his nine) gods and the moon which was rising and the stars in their forms. He saw the fishes of the water. The divine power made them rise above the water. He read the writing to the . . . river. He said to the workmen, "Work for me as far as the place (. . .) them." They worked for him by night as well as by day, in order that he might arrive at the place where I was (. . .) in front of the river of Coptos. I did not drink (. . .) I did nothing at all; I was in the condition of a person who has arrived at the "good dwelling" (the grave). I said to PTAH-NEFER-KA (it is absolutely necessary for me) to see this book. We have suffered this misfortune (?) (. . .) on account of it. He put the book into my hand. I recited a page of its writing. I charmed. I charmed the sky, the earth, the abyss, the mountains, the seas. I learnt all that relates to the birds of heaven, the fish of the sea and fourfooted beasts. It was spoken of them all. I recited the other page of the writing. I saw the sun rising in the sky and the cycle of his nine gods. I saw the moon rise with all the stars of heaven in all their forms. I saw the fishes of the water. The divine power made them rise above the water. . . . this writing? So spake I to PTAH-NEFER-KA, my eldest brother, who was a good writer and a very learned man. He took a new piece of papyrus before him. He copied each word which was on the roll before him. He had it filled with (. . .) He had it dissolved in water. When he saw it dissolved he drank it. He knew all that it contained.

We returned to Coptos on the same day. We made holiday before ISIS of Coptos and HARPOCRATES. We went up to the harbour, we sailed and at the north of Coptos suddenly encountered the god THOTH, who knew all that had happened to PTAH-NEFER-KA as regards the book. THOTH tarried not to report this to RA, saying, "Know that my law and my science is with PTAH-NEFER-KA, son of King MER-NEB-PTAH; he hath gone into my great dwelling. He hath stolen them. He hath taken my box beneath my (. . .). He hath slain my guardian who watched over it." It was answered to him, "He is abandoned to thee with all the persons who belong to him." A divine power was made to descend from heaven to prevent PTAH-NEFER-KA from again entering Memphis. He was enchanted with all the persons who belonged to him. An hour passed thus, and then the young child MERHU went out under the shadow of the royal bark. He fell into the water, invoking RA, and calling upon all the people of the harbour, who stirred not. PTAH-NEFER-KA went out beneath the (. . .) He read over him the writing. He made him come up. The divine power brought him to the surface of the water. He read the writing and made him tell all that had happened to him and (also) of the form of the report which THOTH had addressed to RA. We returned to Coptos with him. We conducted him to the good dwelling, we celebrated the rites for him; we embalmed him as became the greatness of an exalted personage and we buried him in a chest in the Necropolis of Coptos.

PTAH-NEFER-KA my brother said: "Let us embark without delay, lest the King learn what hath happened, and his heart be sad in consequence of it." We went up to the harbour and embarked. We made no delay at the north of Coptos, but on arriving at the place where the young child MERHU had fallen into the river, I went out beneath the shadow of the royal bark and fell into the river. I made invocation to RA, and called upon the people who had remained in the harbour. It was told to PTAH-NEFER-KA, who came out beneath the shadow of the royal bark. He read the writing over me. It made me rise up. The divine power brought me up to the surface of the water. He made me tell him all that had happened to me and of the form of the report which THOTH had addressed to RA. He returned to Coptos with me and had me taken to the "good dwelling." He celebrated the rites for me. He had me embalmed with the embalmment suited to the greatness of a most high personage, and caused me to be buried in the tomb wherein the young child MERHU was buried.

He went up to the harbour and embarked. He staid not at the north of Coptos. And when he came to the place where we had fallen into the river, he spake to himself, saying, "Shall I go to Coptos to be united with them? If not, it will come to pass that when I come to Memphis, the King will straightway ask for my children. What shall I say to him? I cannot tell him thus: 'I have taken thy children to the Thebais. I have slain them and I am alive.' If I go to Memphis shall I still live?"

He caused strips of byssus to be brought to him, wherewith to make a binding-band. He wrapped the book in it and placed it on his side. It made him powerful. PTAH-NEFER-KA went out beneath the shadow of the royal bark, and fell into the river invoking RA and calling upon the people who remained in the harbour. They said, "A great misfortune ! A frightful misfortune ! Returneth he not, the good scribe, without a peer ?" The royal bark was made to sail, without any one knowing the place where PTAH-NEFER-KA was. It arrived in Memphis and the news was told to the King.

The King came down before the royal bark arrayed in a linen robe and the Menefti who all had linen vestments and the Priests of PTAH and the High Priest of PTAH and all the officers of the palace. And when they saw PTAH-NEFER-KA, who occupied the interior of the royal bark in consequence of his position as good scribe, he was taken up, and they saw the book at his side. The King said "Let the book be taken from his side !" The officers of the King and the Priests of PTAH and the High Priest of PTAH said before the King "O our great Master and King, to whom be granted the duration of RA ! PTAH-NEFER-KA was a good scribe and a very learned man." The King caused him to be taken to the "good dwelling" till the sixteenth day, had him arrayed with ornaments till the thirty-fifth day and embalmed till the seventieth day. He was buried in his own tomb and sepulture.

I have undergone these misfortunes on account of this book whereof thou sayest, "Let it be given to me !" Speak not to me of it for because of it we have lost the duration of our life upon earth. SETNAU says "AHURA, let the book be given to me that I may see it, between thee and PTAH-NEFER-

KA, otherwise I shall take it by force." Then PTAH-NEFER-KA rose upon his bed, and he said "Art thou not SETNAU, to whom this lady hath told all this fatal history? Beware of taking the book in question. How couldst thou retain it, in consequence of the force of its extraordinary contents?"

[SETNAU in spite of these counsels insists upon having the book and proposes to PTAH-NEFER-KA to play a game of fifty-two points for the possession of it. PTAH-NEFER-KA accepts the proposal, but attempts to cheat SETNAU and is found out by him, and loses the game.]

SETNAU called AN-HA-HOR-RAU his brother, who was by him, saying, "Go without delay upon earth and tell the King all that has happened to me. Bring the talismans of PTAH which belong to my father, and my magical books." He went to the earth without delay, and told what had happened to SETNAU. The King told him to take the talismans of PTAH, of his father and his magical books. Then straightway AN-HA-HOR-RAU descended into the tomb. He applied the talismans to the body of SETNAU, and at the same moment he flew up to heaven. SETNAU stretched out his hand towards the book and took it. Then SETNAU went out of his tomb and light went before him and darkness behind him. AHURA wept after him saying, "Glory to thee King of darkness ! glory to thee King of light !" It was all (. . .) in the tomb. PTAH-NEFER-KA said to AHURA : "Let not thy heart be sad. I will make him bring back this book. A knife and a stick shall be in his hand and a brazier of fire upon his head."

SETNAU left the tomb, strong in the possession of the book, and he came into the King's presence and told him all that had happened to him and that he possessed the book.

The King said to SETNAU, "This book is taken from the tomb of PTAH-NEFER-KA, be prudent or he will cause thee to be taken. He will be a knife and a stick in thy hand, and a brazier of fire upon thy head." SETNAU listened to him, but it was by no means his design to separate himself from the book. He read it in presence of every one.

After this, it happened one day that SETNAU was walking in the dromos of the temple of PTAH. And he saw a very beautiful woman. No woman was comparable to her in beauty. There was much gold upon her, and many beautiful maidens were walking behind her. One man was their guard. They were fifty-two in number. As soon as SETNAU saw her he no longer knew where in the world he was. He called his young attendant SETEM-ASH and said—Go, forthwith, to the place where that lady is and try to find out what relates to . . . The youthful SETEM-ASH went straightway to the place where the lady was. He called the young maid who was walking behind her. He addressed her, saying, "Who is that lady?" And she answered, "It is TABUBU, the daughter of the Priest of the goddess BAST, the Lady of the quarter Anch-ta (of Memphis) who is going into the temple to make her prayer before PTAH, the great god." The youth returned to SETNAU, and repeated all that she had said. SETNAU told the youth "Go and tell that maiden it is SETNAU CHA-EM-USER, the son of King USERMAT who sendeth me saying—"I will give ten pieces of silver to pass an hour with thee. If not you are warned that force will be employed. I will give them to thee and I will conduct thee to a secret place without any one recognising thee." The youth returned to the place where TABUBU was. He called her young maid and spoke to her. She seemed annoyed at his words as if what he said were shameful. TABUBU said to the young man "Cease talking to that silly girl, come and talk to me." The boy went in where TABUBU was and he said to her "I will give thee ten pieces of silver if you will spend an hour with SETNAU CHA-EM-USET, the son of USERMAT. If you do not accept it, he will do you He will take you to a secret place, so that no one will recognise you." TABUBU said, "Go and tell SETNAU what I say. I am no mean person but a sacred one. If you desire to do your will, come to the temple of BAST, at my house. Every thing is ready. You will do with me what you please. Nobody knows me and I shall not tell it in the street."

The lad returned to SETNAU and repeated all that she had said to him. He (the lad) said, what was true, "It is a shame for any one to be in company with SETNAU!" SETNAU procured a boat for himself and embarking at the harbour lost no time in making his way to the temple of BAST. He advanced to the western portion of the space till he recognised a well-built house. There was a wall of the same height and a garden in the middle. There was a platform before the door. When before it SETNAU said "Whose house is this?" He was told "It is the house of TABUBU." SETNAU went into the interior of the enclosure in order to face the hall looking upon the garden. TABUBU was told of this. She came down, seized the hand of SETNAU and said to him, The house of the Priest of BAST, Lady of Anchta, into which thou hast entered is of great splendour. Come up with me. SETNAU went in and ascended the staircase of the house with TABUBU until they perceived the terrace of the house. It was adorned and decorated, and its ornaments were of real lapis lazuli and real malachite. There were numerous couches draped with byssus. Many cups of gold were ranged upon a sideboard and each cup was filled with wine. They were placed in the hand of SETNAU. She said to him "Be pleased to eat." He replied "That is not what I ask for." Baked bread was offered to him and oil was brought before him according to the usages of the royal table.

SETNAU made holiday with TABUBU but he did not yet see her face. Then SETNAU said to TABUBU—"Let us make an end, and for this purpose let us go within!" She replied "Thou hast reached thy house, that in which thou art. I am no mean person but a sacred one, and if thou desirest to do thy will with me a contract must be made ceding to me all thy property and every kind of thing belonging to thee."

An hour had passed and SETNAU was told "Thy children are below." He said "Let them be brought up!" TABUBU arose and clothed herself in a dress of byssus. SETNAU saw all her limbs through the tissue. His desire for her went on increasing very much more than at first. SETNAU said to TABUBU, "Let me come to an end, and for that let me enter the house." She said to him "Thou hast reached thy house, that in which thou art. I am not a mean person but a sacred one; if thou desirest to have thy will with me thou must cause thy children to sign their names at the foot of my contract, in order that they may not make any quarrel with my children for thy property." He caused his children to enter and he made them sign at the foot of the contract.

SETNAU said to TABUBU "Let me finish and go within for this purpose." She replied to him "Thou hast reached thy house, that in which thou art. I am not a mean person but a sacred one; if thou desirest to have thy will with me thou must cause thy children to be slain, in order that they may not make any quarrel with my children for thy property." SETNAU said, "Let this wicked deed be done which has taken possession of thy heart." She caused his children to be slain before him, and had them thrown down through the window to the dogs and the cats who eat their flesh, and he heard them as he was drinking with TABUBU.

SETNAU said to TABUBU "Let us have done, and go inside for that purpose. All that thou hast told me I have done." She replied "Enter into that chamber." SETNAU entered the chamber and he lay down on a couch of ivory and ebony. His wish was to have gold. TABUBU lay down in a corner. SETNAU put forth his hand to touch her foot.

[A short passage here occurs which, at present, baffles translation. When SETNAU awoke he found himself in a bake-house.]

His member was imprisoned in a sehi. He had no clothes on his back. After an hour had passed SETNAU perceived a man of high stature. He was like a Mako, and many tetau were under his feet. He was like a King. SETNAU was about to rise, but he could not through shame, no clothes being on his back. The King said to him, "SETNAU what is this state in which thou art?" He replied, "It is PTAH-NEFER-KA, who has done me all this." The King said "Go to Memphis; thy children, lo, they are asking for thee; lo, they present themselves before the King."

SETNAU said to the King: "My great Master, to whom be granted the duration of the sun! how can I go to Memphis, not having any clothes upon my back?" The King called a servant who was standing by him and made him give a dress to SETNAU. The King said to SETNAU, "Go to Memphis; thy children—lo, they are living; lo, they are presenting themselves before the King."

SETNAU went to Memphis, and there he embraced his children, who were alive. The King said, "Is it not intoxication which has made thee do all this?" And SETNAU related all that had passed between him and TABUBU and PTAH-NEFER-KA. The King said, "SETNAU I had already raised my hand against thee, I had told thee to kill them, and not to carry off this book from the place whence thou hast taken it. Thou hast not obeyed me until now. Let that book of PTAH-NEFER-KA be removed. A knife and a stick shall be in thy hand and a brazier of fire upon thy head."

SETNAU went out from the presence of the King. A knife and a stick were in his hand and a brazier of fire was upon his head. He went down into the tomb where PTAH-NEFER-KA was. AHURA said to him, "O SETNAU, the great god PTAH,—he it is who supports thee ; may he preserve thee !"

PTAH-NEFER-KA laughed, saying, "This is the business which I had foretold thee." SETNAU agreed. He acknowledged what they had . . . saying, the god RA, he it was who was in the entire tomb. AHURA and PTAH-NEFER-KA stoutly affirmed this. SETNAU said : "PTAH-NEFER-KA is it not a bad business?" PTAH-NEFER-KA replied : "SETNAU, thou hast made it known, saying ; AHURA and MERHU her son are at Coptos ; in order to (. . .) them in a tomb according to the good book. Let them (. . .) before thee. Go take a (. . .) go to Coptos and enter into the interior."

SETNAU went out of the tomb. He presented himself to the King, and spoke to him exactly as PTAH-NEFER-KA had said. The King said "SETNAU, go thou to Coptos in order to (discover) AHURA and her son MERHU." He said to the King "Let the royal bark be given to me with its crew." He went up to the harbour, embarked and ceased not sailing till he came to Coptos. The news was told to the Priests of ISIS at Coptos and to the High Priest of ISIS. Behold they came down to meet him. They seized his hand to salute him on his arrival. He went out and betook himself to the temple of ISIS of Coptos and of HARPOCRATES. He caused a goose and some wine to be brought, wherewith to make a sacrifice and a libation to ISIS of Coptos and HARPOCRATES. Then he proceeded to the Necropolis of Coptos with the Priests of ISIS and with the High Priests of ISIS. They spent three days and three nights in searching all the tombs of the Necropolis of Coptos, and in examining the tablets of hieroglyphic writing, and reading the letters engraved upon them, without discovering the burial places of AHURA and her son MERHU.

PTAH-NEFER-KA knew that they would recognise the burial places of AHURA and her son MERHU. He presented himself under the form of a very aged man. He advanced towards SETNAU who saw him and said, "Thou hast the appearance of a very aged man. Knowest thou not the burial places in which are laid AHURA and her son MERHU?" The old man said "The father of my father's father has said to my father's father, and my father's father has said to my father: 'The burial places of AHURA and MERHU are in the corner of the southern tract of the place called Pe-he-mato.'" SETNAU said to the old man "Cause the Pe-he-mato to be mined so that we get into this place." The old man said to SETNAU "Let a warrant be given to me that if the Pe-he-mato be pierced without our finding AHURA and her son MERHU, under the south corner of the place, no hurt shall be done me." And the warrant was granted to the old man.

The burial places of AHURA and her son MERHU were discovered at the south corner of the place called Pe-he-mato. SETNAU made all the great personages of the royal bark come in. He caused the place Pe-he-mato to be rebuilt as it was at first. And PTAH-NEFER-KA discovered himself to SETNAU as the person who had come to Coptos in order to identify the burial places in which AHURA and her son MERHU were laid.

SETNAU went down to the harbour in the royal bark. He entered into it and ceased not to sail until he arrived at Memphis with all the Menefti who were with him. The news was told to the King, who came down to meet the royal bark. He made the great personages enter into the place where PTAH-NEFER-KA was. (He made them all come up together)

This is the end of the manuscript which contains the tale of SETNAU CHA-EM-USET and of PTAH-NEFER-KA and of AHURA, his wife and her son MERHU. This was written in the year 35, on the . . .¹ day of the month Tybi.

ARCHAIC CLASSICS.

THE Volumes announced by Messrs. S. BAGSTER AND SONS under the above title, are now ready. The ASSYRIAN ELEMENTARY GRAMMAR AND READING BOOK by the Rev. A. H. SAYCE, M.A., contains the most complete Syllabary yet extant and serves also as a Vocabulary of both Accadian and Assyrian. The ELEMENTARY MANUAL OF THE EGYPTIAN LANGUAGE by Mr. P. LE PAGE RENOUF, F.R.S.L., contains a carefully prepared introduction to the Hieroglyphic Vocabulary, and a series of interlineary examples. The two special features which these Grammars possess above all others in English are, first, that the Syllabaries are in both cases revised to the present time; and second, that the verbs and nouns are accompanied with the original characters as well as being transliterated, an advantage which every Oriental student will know well how to appreciate. By a special arrangement with the Authors, Messrs. BAGSTER are enabled to offer the Volumes at a price to render them accessible to every student, and it is to be hoped that the success of these Volumes will be such as to encourage further Works of a similar nature, and to roll away much of the difficulty and obscurity which has hitherto been generally associated with the very names of the Archaic languages of the historic world.
